A HISTORY
—OF THE—
TOWN OF ST. GEORGE, MAINE.

CHAPTER I.

LOCATION OF TOWN—AREA—POST-OFFICES—PLANTATION NAME—INCORPORATED—SCENERY—DISTANCE FROM RAILROAD AND COUNTY SEAT—STAGE CONNECTIONS.

THE Town of St. George is situated in the extreme southern part of Knox County, Maine. It embraces the larger part of a long and broad peninsula formed by St. Georges River on the west and the Atlantic Ocean on the east. The town is bounded on the north by South Thomaston. Area is 11,026 acres, including Hupper's, Mosquito, Clark, Burnt, Allen's, Matinic, White Head and other islands, which form a part of the town. There are six post-offices located at the following villages, viz.: Port Clyde, Tenant's Harbor, Martinsville, Clark Island, Turkey, and St. George. The last named post-office is at the village generally known as Wiley's Corner. The plantation name for St. George and Cushing was St. George. When first incorporated in 1798 both towns were called Cushing. What is now St. George was set off from Cushing and incorporated Feb. 7, 1803. The surface of the town is quite uneven but there are no high hills or deep valleys. Stone Hill, about 200 feet high is the most elevated land in town. Turkey Pond is the largest sheet of fresh water. The woods are chiefly spruce, and the soil is largely clay loam.

St. George is about four miles from the Knox & Lincoln branch of the Maine Central Railroad at Thomaston and about eight miles from Rockland, the county seat, and has stage connections daily to both points.

There are four Lighthouses along the coast of St. George located as follows: Southern Island, at entrance to Tenant's Harbor; Marshall's Point, at entrance of Port Clyde; Franklin Light at western entrance of Georges River; and White Head Light on western side of Seal Harbor. There are two Life Saving Stations, one at White Head and the other on Burnt Island.

The population of St. George at various periods has been as follows: In 1850 it was 2217; in 1860, 2716; in 1870, 2318; in 1880, 2875; in 1890, 2491. Valuation 1860 was: Estates, $343,152; in 1870, $403,342; in 1880, $523,266; in 1890, $448,227. Poles: 1860, 553; 1870, 527; 1880, 687; 1890, 698.

Town officers for present year are: Alexander Kelloch, L. W. Seavey, J. L. Romkey, Selectmen; David S. Seavey, Town Clerk; R. Long, Treasurer; John S. Smalley, Collector; Lemuel Ludwig, J. S. Smalley, Constables; W. L. Allen, F. O. Bartlett, W. H. Mathews, School Committee; F. O. Bartlett, (Sec.,) H. F. Kelloch, W. H. Mathews, Board of Health.

Notaries are: Franklin Trussell, Port Clyde; Whitney Long and Nelson Hall, Tenant's Harbor.

Justices are: Franklin Trussell, Port Clyde; Wm. J. Caddy, St. George, (Quorum), Nelson Hall, Tenant's Harbor.

CHAPTER II.

WEYMOUTH'S VISIT—PENTACOST HARBOR—FISHING
—THE FIRST GARDEN—TREATMENT OF INDIANS
—KIDNAPPED — LORD JOHN POPHAM—
PEMAQUID—WAWEENOKE TRIBE—
1635—A LONG SILENCE.

On the 31st day of March, 1605, the ship Archangel, Capt. George Weymouth, sailed from the Downs and arrived in sight of Cape Cod May 12. Sailing in a northerly direction, on May 17, they came to an island about six miles from shore and cast anchor. On the 19th of the same month they set sail again and after passing other islands reached the mainland. Rosier the historian of the voyage writes: "It pleased God to send us, far beyond our expectations, in most safe berth, defended from all winds, in an excellent depth of water for ships of any burden, and which was named Pentacost Harbor." The party found salmon and other fish in abundance, and lobsters and clams were also plenty. A garden was dug and peas, barley, etc., planted, and the soil proved wonderfully productive. This was the first attempt by Europeans to cultivate the soil of Maine.

Pentacost Harbor referred to by Rosier was Georges Island Harbor, as historians agree. During Weymouth's stay here the Indians were found to be peaceable and friendly. It is not at all unlikely, that the Indian horrors which followed in after years were the result of Weymouth's unkind, unfair, brutal and inhuman treatment; the Indians were cheated, deceived, and five were kidnapped and carried to England by him when he sailed, June 16, 1605.

The next white men to visit this land were Lord John Popham in a vessel called "The Gift of God," and Capt. Rawley Gilbert, a nephew of Popham's, in "The Mary and John." This was in 1607. They came to visit the land discovered by Weymouth. On arrival the Indians were found to be very cautious in their dealings with the white strangers. It is generally admitted by all historians that at this time the Indians were fair and honorable in their dealings. Such a thing as deceit or trickery was unknown to them. Many encounters between the Indians and whites took place about this time, brought about by the meanness and rascality of the whites.

After Popham's departure no records appear to have been kept until, in the year 1623. In this year many individuals settled at Pemaquid and along the St. Georges River.

In 1630 eighty-four families were residing about this region. We are told that many of these men were reckless adventurers, such as fugitives from justice, runaway sailors and buccaneers. Society was noted for its lawlessness. The Indians continued to be badly treated by the whites.

About 1628 Pemaquid was a very busy spot; a court was established and it became the center of law and trade. The Indian population of Maine at this time was about 37,000. The Wawenocks possessed the region east of the Sagadahock as far as St. Georges River. This tribe of Indians were very strong, but of ordinary stature. They are said to have worn no beards, but we are not informed as to the methods employed by them to keep beard from growing. This tribe were noted for their fair dealings in trade.

In 1635 mention is made of but two families living on St. George soil, but their names are not given. It appears that a long silence follows this last date, as nothing can be found giving any account of what occurred at St. George until in the next century.

CHAPTER III.

THE FORT ON ST. GEORGES RIVER—SETTLEMENT—
INDIAN ATTACK—SAD ACCOUNT OF CAPT.
WINSLOW'S DEATH—LAST ATTACK
ON THE FORT, 1776.

About the year 1717 a strong and capacious fort was built on the easterly bank of St. Georges River. A short distance from that a block-house was erected, and the large area between was enclosed by palisades. This afforded ample accommodation for a garrison of two hundred and fifty men. This was known as Fort Richmond. In 1720 there were twenty houses, a few stores and two or three wharves near the stronghold.

During the Indian troubles of 1723 twenty or thirty white people were reported killed or captured in the state. Dec. 25, 1723, a determined band of sixty Indians made a desperate attack upon the Fort at St. George. The seige continued thirty days, a heroic defence being made. Re-enforcements arrived and the Indians retreated taking one captive with them. For many years this fort and block-house was the only place of refuge for settlers living for many miles around. It was always well defended, and a brave, determined garrison were ever ready to sell their lives dearly in protecting those within the palisades.

In the spring of 1724, during Lovewell's war, the shore of St. George was the scene of a tragic fight between the whites and the Indians.

Captain Winslow, a descendant of the Plymouth Colony Governor of that name, being in charge of the Fort at Thomaston, made an excursion down the St. Georges for the purpose of fowling. They went in two strong whale boats and numbered 16 men. A large company of Indians were in the vicinity hunting. They concealed themselves and watched the white men. As Capt. Winslow's boats were returning next day the Indians fired upon them from an ambush on the shore. Capt. Winslow's boat was in advance and was allowed to pass, the whole fire being directed upon the rear boat under command of Sergeant Harvey. The Sergeant fell, and a brisk fire was returned by the white men. Capt. Winslow, though past danger, hastened back to the assistance of his companions. Thirty boats or canoes full of Indians shot out from the shore and surrounded the two boats. Every man was killed except one or two friendly Indians who were allowed to escape and they carried the sad news to the garrison.

During the war between England and France in 1756 Capt. Bradbury was in command of the Fort. In August 1758 a party of French and Indians made an attack but were driven off, reinforcements having arrived in good season. This was the last attack made by Indians on the Fort at St. George.

In 1776 the Fort was a common resort in times of peril. Warren and Thomaston were incorporated during this year.

CHAPTER V.

WAR OF 1812—THE BRIM—QUALIFICATION OF VOTERS—SCHOOL DISTRICTS, ETC.

During the War of 1812 the British man-of-war Brim destroyed several vessels along the coast of Maine. At Cranberry Island the English were driven off, suffering a loss of several men. The Brim visited Tenant's Harbor, during the excitement, anchoring below and sending two barges filled with men, into the harbor. They sunk a sloop owned by Hart & Watts. The minute-men had been warned and met at the house of Thomas Henderson. Breastworks were made and the English fired upon as they were pulling out of the harbor. One of the men in the barges was seen to throw up his arms and fall ; as he fell one of the minute-men jumped to his feet and yelled at them, "Remember Cranberry Island, ye boogers." This was the last seen of the Brim along the coast of St. George.

It appears that voters must have a certain income or own real estate in order to take part in elections as shown by the following, which explains the condition of affairs :

ST. GEORGE, Mar. 14, 1814.

To Moses Watts, Constable of the Town of St. George,

GREETING:

You are hereby required to warn the male inhabitants of said town being 21 years of age and upward, having an income of three pounds, or any estate to the value of sixty pounds, to meet at the school house in said town, near Aaron Simmons', on Monday, April 4, at 2 p. m., to give their vote for Governor, Lieut.-Governor, Senators and Councillors for said Commonwealth.

CHAPTER VI.

TOWN MEETINGS — AMOUNTS APPROPRIATED — LIQUOR BUSINESS—HIGHWAYS—SOLDIERS—WAR
 —REPRESENTATIVES—MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

At a town meeting held April 6, 1812, voted $300 for town expenses, current year. $400 was allowed for support of schools and $500 for repairs of highways. In 1829, $200 was raised for support of the gospel, $600 for town charges, $700 for repairs of highways, and $300 to clear the roads in winter. "If not worked out next winter to be worked out the winter following, and so on."

Voted, to dispense with the bridge at the head of Watts' Pond.

Sept. 11, 1832, we find that six persons paid at the rate of $6 per year, and were licensed to retail spirituous liquors. The amount received for the year was $88.35.

At town meeting held March 14, 1854, Voted $1000 for town expenses; $1000 for repairs of highways; to take a new valuation of town; that cattle may run at large.

St. George furnished her share of soldiers during the War of the Rebellion. Among those now residing in town who served their country may be mentioned: Hon. Nelson Hall, C. A. Glidden, James Rawley, Chas. C. Skinner, Samuel Wilson, Nathan Bachelder, and Lucius H. Bond. There are probably several others but we could not obtain their names. At various periods during the war the town raised $250, $300 and $500, for each man drafted into the U. S. service; to go himself or furnish a substitute.

March 4, 1865, $300 was voted to be paid to 1-year men, $400 for 2-years men, and $500 for 3-years men; to be paid to substitutes or drafted men, to fill deficiency of four men on this town's quota on the last call of the President for 300,000 men. A committee was appointed to procure a loan for that purpose.

August 20, 1861, an agreement was made between selectmen of Cushing, Friendship and St. George: "That each of the three towns shall send representatives to the Legislature for the following years: Cushing for 1864-68; St. George for 1862-63-66-67-70-71; Friendship for 18 5-69."

To show amount raised by town at various periods, we give 1868 figures as follows: Raised for schools what the law obliges, $2,027; legal town expenses, $2,300; $8,000 principal and interest on war debt.

What is known as the Spouting Horn is located at the south side of Tenant's Harbor. It is caused by water from the sea being thrown under a ledge and forced out through a hole, throwing a stream of mist and water several feet high and making a noise which in severe storm, can be heard a long distance. Historians mention Devil's Den as a well-known land mark in St. George. It is simply a small cave or hole in a ledge and of no special interest.

At the western part of Cutler's Cove there was formerly a saw and grist mill. It was near this mill that the first vessel was built in St. George. She was the schooner Daniel & James, named for Daniel Torry, and James Barter, who also commanded her. We are told that about the time the mill was built, Clark Linnekin, the local poet, produced a fine poem from which one verse is given, thusly, referring to the sons of John Watts :

Watts' boys they built a mill,
And half the time she stood still,
And when she went, she made a noise
Because she was built for Watts' boys.

In early times, once in two weeks a mail was received ; later a weekly service was secured, but for many years a daily mail has been received. There are two stage lines—one carrying the mail to Thomaston, and an accommodation line from Tenant's Harbor to Rockland, via Wiley's Corner. A daily steamboat line is run during the summer and fall between Rockland and Friendship, touching at Port Clyde.

There are three churches in town, and a fourth in course of construction at Port Clyde. The First Baptist church was organized at Wiley's Corner in 1784. Second Baptist at Martinsville, 1817. Third Baptist at Tenant's Harbor in 1842. The church at Port Clyde is to be a Free, or Union church, so we are told.

CHAPTER VII.

Herewith is given a list of vessels built in St. George from earliest time to date, but date of construction could not be found in many cases. Total number is sixty-two, a list that any town should be proud of.

CHAPTER VIII.

ODDS AND ENDS—PERSONALS—CRIME—MERE MENTION—SMALL TALK—INDUSTRIES—FREE MASONS

Among the most important industries of the town, that of quarrying granite is probably of the greatest importance. There are three concerns engaged in the business there: The New England Co-operative Granite Co., Booth Brothers & Hurricane Isle Granite Co., and Clark Island Granite Co. The granite found is of excellent quality and well known all over the country. The Post-office and Custom House building at Rockland is constructed of St. George granite. This industry furnishes employment to several hundred men, and good wages are made.

Many are engaged in fishing along the coast and this is no small business. A list of all vessels built in town is given in this work, which speaks for itself. There are many retired sea captains in St. George, while a goodly number yet follow the same business today. Capt. Samuel Watts, Capt. Robert Long, and Capt. Samuel Trussell, are three well known master mariners who have sailed many a noble vessel, visiting nearly all the ports of the world.

Eureka Lodge Free and Accepted Masons held their first authorized meeting in Mason's Hall, August 6, 1855. The original members were: Charles Stearns, Oren Prescott, John H. Smalley, Warren Blake, Lewis Ogier, William Long, William Smalley, George Barter, S. H. Jackson, John E. Dailey, William Brownrigg, Eben. G. Otis, James Wood, Alexander Allen. The Lodge now

1997 REPORTS

Although the number of publications has increased from 1995 to 1996, the number of citations per publication has decreased.

One possible problem could be papers not being submitted to highly prestigious and highly cited journals. Another possibility is that the quality of research may have declined over time. A recent study suggests that the average impact factor of all journals in the field of environmental health sciences has declined over time (Hannan et al., 1996). This study found that the journal Environmental Health Perspectives had the largest decline in impact factor, from 1981 to 1991. The journal Environmental Health Perspectives Supplements had the second largest decline, followed by Journal of Environmental Health. In addition, the study found that the average impact factor of all journals in the field of environmental health sciences declined from 1981 to 1991.

Another possible problem is that the number of citations per publication has increased over time. This is true for the journal Environmental Health Perspectives, which has increased its citation rate from 1981 to 1991. The journal Environmental Health Perspectives Supplements has also increased its citation rate over time. The journal Journal of Environmental Health has also increased its citation rate over time. The journal Environmental Health Perspectives Supplements has also increased its citation rate over time.

Finally, another possible reason for the increase in citations per publication is that the number of publications has increased over time. This is true for the journal Environmental Health Perspectives Supplements, which has increased its citation rate from 1981 to 1991. The journal Journal of Environmental Health has also increased its citation rate over time. The journal Environmental Health Perspectives Supplements has also increased its citation rate over time.

numbers over one hundred members and is in a flourishing condition. Officers for the present year are as follows, viz: J. M. Smith, W. M.; John S. Smalley, S. W.; Hiram Russell, J. W.; Henry Giles, Treas.; Whitney Long, Sec; C. G. Crocker, S. D.; John Nairn, J. D.; H. F. Kalloch, Chaplain; Mark G. Wall, S. S.; Fred Lowel, J. S.; Wm. Dwire, Tyler.

One of the early settlers was Joshua Smalley who came from England and originally settled on Cape Cod. He came to St. George over one hundred years ago and took up his residence in the eastern part of the town. Mrs. Long, wife of Deacon Long, and Mrs. Grace, wife of Mayor Grace of New York are descendants of Joshua Smalley. Another of his descendants was Thomas H. Smalley, who was Selectman and Representative for several terms.

There have been two murders committed in St. George since the town was incorporated. The first occurred at Wiley's Corner, February, 1870. A man by the name of Jones was the victim. Two men, by the name of Smalley and Andrews were arrested but neither convicted. The second murder was the noted Hart—Meservey affair, which, briefly we give as follows: On the evening of Dec. 22, 1877, Mrs. Sarah H. Meservey, wife of Capt. Luther Meservey was murdered in her own house at Tenant's Harbor. The fact was not discovered until Jan. 29, 1878, when her body was found. Nathan F. Hart was charged with the deed, found guilty by the jury, and sentenced for life to the State Prison at Thomaston. A great many people believed that Hart was not the guilty party,

Be that as it may, Nathan F. Hart entered prison Oct. 7, 1878 and died Oct. 9, 1883. Cause of death according to the records was "malignant jaundice."

The people of St. George are noted for their hospitality. A glance at the merchants engaged in trade here will convince anyone that the volume of business must be quite large. The many school-houses about town are in good condition and largely attended. The town roads are kept in first-class condition. Miles of plank sidewalk have been built and maintained, which are appreciated by pedestrians. In addition to the granite companies named elsewhere in this volume, several parties are in the business on their own account, and appear to be doing well. Paving blocks taken from the quarries of St. George are unsurpassed. The town records since date of incorporation are in fine condition. The present clerk, David S. Seavey, has served nearly twenty years in that office.

Among those whom St. George claims as natives who have made special marks in the world should be mentioned: Capt. Sam'l Watts, Capt. Alfred Watts, Capt. Harvey Mills and William Long. More on this point may be gleaned from the biographical sketches which appear elsewhere in this book.

Bio*graphical* Sketches.

HON. SAMUEL WATTS.

Samuel Watts was born in the town of St. George, Oct. 3, 1812. He lived with his parents until in his fifteenth year when he hired out for $6 a month. The year following he was paid $8 per month and for his third year's work received $10 a month. Part of his fourth year he got $10.50, being then in his nineteenth year. At the age of 19 he commenced going to sea as cook. He afterwards shipped on the brig Pensacola bound for New Orleans, and continued to follow the sea as sailor, second mate, and first mate, taking charge of the new brig Hector at the age of 23. He was in this vessel some 15 months when he lost her on Gay Head. He then came to Thomaston and took charge of the brig Ann Maria, made one trip to New Orleans, and returned to Thomaston; then took the new brig Jefferson continuing in her two years or more. Next took charge of brig Monroe for about a year, then the new brig Clarissa for two years; the new bark Elliot for a short period; then the new bark Franklin to New Orleans, thence to Galveston, back to New Orleans. Came to Thomaston again and took charge of brig McMain, making one voyage in her. He next took charge of ship James Nesmith, making two voyages to Europe. His next vessel was the ship Franklin King, making the trip to Mobile, thence to Liverpool and then to New York. He then came back home and took command of the new ship Western Empire; she was built at Damariscotta. Made two voyages in the Western Empire going to Mobile, Liverpool and New York. This was the last of his going to sea. Age 39 years.

Capt. Watts next went into trade at Thomaston with Edward O'Brien under the firm name of O'Brien, Watts & Co., continuing in the firm three years and then selling out his interest.

In company with Edw. O'Brien he built two ships after which he commenced building vessels under firm name of Watts & Co. Continued to build until 1887, since which time he has been looking after his vessel business. He moved from Thomaston to Boston about ten years ago, where he still resides.

Capt. Watts was married at the age of 24, to Clarissa B. Mills of St. George. She died at the age of 67. Married Emily Jordan Robbins for second wife, nearly ten years ago.

Capt. Watts has always led a busy life. One of his business rules is: "Be prompt to pay, equally so to collect." Capt. Watts, in a recent letter to the writer, gives some thoughts that are worth printing. He says: * * * "I presume that it has been with me as it has with most other men, each and every day has brought its ups and downs in life, and no doubt will continue to until the end of life is reached. My life has been spared far in advance of the average of my fellowmen. I have enjoyed fairly good health and feel thankful that my Creator has spared my life so long."

Mr. Watts was a director in the Thomaston National Bank, director and president of Georges National Bank, also director in Boston Marine Insurance Company. He has served one session in the Legislature, was delegate to the National Convention nominating Buchanan, delegate at large to convention nominating S. J. Tilden, also to convention nominating Gen. Hancock.

The children of Capt. Watts are as follows:

Mary Jane Watts, born July 15, 1838.

Sarah Watts, born June 10, 1840; died in San Francisco Oct. 21, 1868.

Clarissa Watts; born June 5, 1844; died Feb. 12, 1847.

Adalaide Watts, born April 2, 1846; died Sept. 2, 1846.

Clara Watts, born June 24, 1847; died Sept. 1, 1848.

Emma Watts, born June 6, 1849.

James Harvey Watts, born March 18, 1852; died Nov. 27, 1852

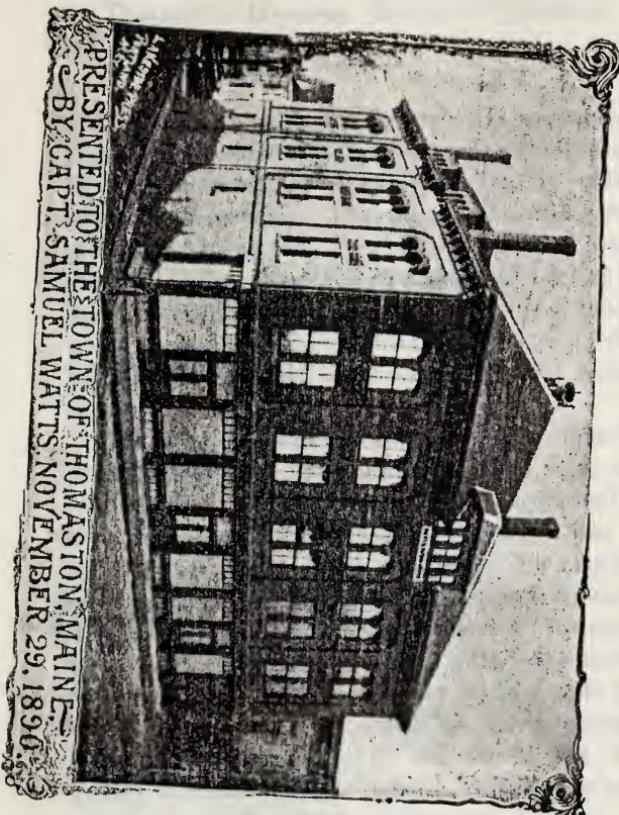

Alice Watts, born Sept. 21, 1854; died Oct. 16, 1856.

Clarissa Watts, wife of Samuel Watts, died Dec. 2, 1880.

Capt. Watts gave to the Town of Thomaston in 1890 a beautiful Town Hall, for all time to come. A cut of the structure is given on next page:

The rent of the stores in said hall is to be devoted to the worthy poor of Thomaston.

Capt. Watts also gave to the new church at Tenant's Harbor about $3,000. A picture of this fine church with sketch is given on the following pages.

PRESNTED TO THE TOWN OF THOMASTON, MAINE
BY CAPT. SAMUEL WATTS, NOVEMBER 29, 1896.

TENANT'S HARBOR BAPTIST CHURCH.

The new and handsome Tenant's Harbor church, a picture of which is here given, is commandingly located on a hill overlooking the pretty village whose name it bears. The old church forms one of the wings. It is 35x65 feet, and is used as a chapel, the ladies' parlors and a well appointed kitchen being fitted up in the southern end. The chapel proper opens into the main audience room by sliding glass doors which adds materially to the seating capacity.

This wing is 54x46 feet and extends from the old church due east. The audience room is 27 feet high, in the clear, and the ceiling is supported by three hard-pine trusses cased with pine. The interior finish is of white-wood, while the fifty-two pews are western ash with black walnut trimmings. The seating capacity is 312, while with the aid of the chapel 550 people can be comfortably seated. The pulpit is in the eastern end, and from its left, opens the pastor's room which has an entrance in the southeast corner, while the organ and choir gallery is on the pastor's right. A handsome wool carpet covers the floor, while a fine Turkish rug brightens the pulpit platform. The pulpit furnishings are of carved black walnut, upholstered in crimson plush.

But the most notable feature of this beautiful room is the stained glass windows. There are four double windows and an immense chancel window, all of them gifts, and three of them memorials. Two of the double windows were given by the young ladies of the church society. They are very pretty and are inscribed: "Gift of the Young People." The money was raised by entertainments.

On the left of the pulpit is a double window given by Mrs. T. B. Bickmore and family in memory of the husband and father, an active and beloved member of the church, who died in the old church at one of the services in 1875. The window is a beautiful floral design, the two sections centered by an anchor and cross, with illuminated stars above. The inscription is: "In memory of Capt. John Bickmore. Died in Church, Jan. 21, 1875, aged 63 years. 'He walked with God, and he was not, for God took him.' "

On the right of the pulpit is a double window, the gift of Samuel, Joseph and Aaron Watts, all of Tenant's Harbor, in memory of their father, Joseph Watts. This window is also a floral design and very pretty, the inscriptions at the base being enclosed in supporting pillars. The legend is: "'Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord.' In memoriam Joseph Watts, born Dec. 1, 1816; died Feb. 18, 1887, aged 80 years, 2 months, 18 days." A dove and open bible are the designs for the caps.

The chancel window is a magnificent piece of artistic work. It stands sixteen feet high and nine feet wide. It represents the woman of Samaria listening to the Saviour. Christ is seated, a massive stone structure furnishing a background, and with His right hand extended, He addresses the Samarian, who stands in an attitude of eager attention, with her pitcher in hand. The colors are beautifully chosen and the figures stand out in bold relief. The inscriptions are: "Joseph Watts, born Sept. 27, 1773; died Oct. 15, 1841. Sally Watts, born Oct. 9, 1773; died Sept. 28, 1826." The scripture quoted is found in John, 4th chapter, 14th verse. This window is the gift of Samuel Watts of Boston, in memory of his parents.

The chapel is a very attractive room and conveniently and neatly furnished, as are the parlors. The windows in this part of the edifice are also of pretty, stained glass,

The main entrance is immediately under the tower, and opens into a broad vestibule, from which access can be had to the right into the church, or to the left into the chapel or parlors.

The tower is 74 feet high, and commands a fine view of the surrounding country and sea.

At the dedication, in October 1891, the building committee reported $2,096 debt. Capt. G. W. Rawley thereupon paid $250 and Mrs. Samuel Watts, 2d, and Joseph Watts paid $96. Captain Samuel Watts of Boston then addressed his old friends and neighbors. He said the church should be dedicated free from debt, and then and there paid the balance of $1,750. The rejoicing of the people was great. Capt. Watts' gifts to the new church amount to about $3,000.

The church has a membership of over 250. Robert Long, H. F. Kalloch and S. W. Simmons are deacons.

and especially all American lower class citizens seem to have been indoctrinated in some way or another and still are held in place by the same forces.

It would appear that the most likely source of power is the economic system itself. It is the economic system which creates the wealth that can buy off the people and it is the economic system which creates the wealth that can buy off the people. It is the economic system which creates the wealth that can buy off the people.

That's a winning proposal, right? Well, it is.
That's why people, around the world, just like us, are connecting with "Smart" and "Innovative Solutions."

He commenced life as a poor boy financially, but one of the richest that St. George ever had within her limits in ambition, pluck and perseverance. In early life he possessed intelligence and good judgment to a large degree for one of his years, and these, united with honesty and temperance attracted the attention of leading business men of the town. At the age of only seventeen years he was invited to assume the command of one of the coasting vessels owned by the heirs of Joseph Fish, and with his usual pluck, he accepted the charge and commenced life financially on board a schooner called the Van Buren. From her he was promoted successively to the command of the schooners Fannie K. Shaw, Hattie Turner and F. L. Richardson and at the time of his death it was planned for him to have and to command a new and larger vessel than any he had formerly had. On July 14, 1876, he married Miss Iantha Murphy, daughter of William Murphy of St. George, and she proved to be a source of comfort as well as a helpmate to him, which was so much needed in early life. By this marriage they had one child, a daughter, (Alice May.) In 1888, while in Boston, he chartered his vessel to go with a general cargo to Trinidad thence to Turk's Island to load with salt and to return to the home port. November 23, 1888, one of those heavy gales which often visit the Atlantic coast occurred, and at that time Capt. Balano was on his passage from Turk's Island to Boston, and it is supposed that his vessel foundered some time during the gale and that all on board were lost. It was with the greatest anxiety that his wife and friends waited for news of his arrival, but like many others who have waited and watched, they waited in vain. The Father of mercies had called him to a better home than earth. The loss of this noble young man was a severe one to his friends and especially so to the town in which he lived. He had accumulated by his energy and economy several thousand dollars, and bid fair to make not only a wealthy man but a man to be honored and respected by all who knew him.
